Under date of April 26, 1945 the New York Field Division advised by letter as to the following information. A review of the New York Field Division files reflected the following information on AGNES SMEDLEY.

On either March 18 or March 19, 1918 SAILENDRA NATH GHOSE and AGNES SMEDLEY were arrested on a warrant charging them with the violation of Section 3, Title 8 of the Espionage Act and Section 332 of the United States Criminal Code, for acting as agents of a foreign country and aiding and abetting such action.

The files contained a letter dated September 23, 1922 from the New York Office to the Director, Bureau of Investigation, Department of Justice, Washington, in which it was stated an indictment was returned against the above two individuals on April 1, 1918 in the Southern District of New York for violation of the above sections. The letter further stated that AGNES SMEDLEY was released on bond on May 7, 1918 and the indictment was dismissed against both defendants on December 16, 1918 and GHCSE was released on December 18, 1918.

The files also contained a report of EDWARD P. MORSE dated September 25, 1922 at San Francisco, California, which reflects that GHOSE was one of the many defendants in the so-called HINDU conspiracy case which was tried in San Francisco in the latter part of 1917 or 1918. The docket in the office of the Clerk of the United States District Court, San Francisco, indicated that GHOSE was indicted with the other defendants on July 7, 1917 in San Francisco but there was no record of any further action as to that subject. This report further indicated that GHOSE was apprehended in New York City and the then United States Attorney decided the expense of "prosecuting and gathering witnesses would be prohibitive, no further action in subject's case." The report further indicated that GHOSE was connected with the organization known as the Friends of Freedom for India" in New York City and was closely associated with AGNES SMEDLEY.

There was also contained in the files some unidentified notes which reflect the following information as to AGNES SMEDLEY.

"Miss SMEDLEY leased, under name of BRUNDIN, at 156 Waverly Place, November 25 to December 26 (1917); at 16 East 9th Street December 27 to February 22 (1918); under the name of SMEDLEY at 38 Union Square February 22 to date of arrest March, 1918. For date of arrest see Docket C-11-359.

"Has a sister in California - a teacher. SMEDLEY herself taught in the State Normal School at Santigo, California, early in 1917 - she graduated from same school. AGNES SMEDLEY, born near Osgood, Missouri, went to Colorado in childhood to the coal mining district - Trinidad, Colorado. Went to State Mormal School at Tempe, Arizona. Went to California at age of 20. She was 26 years old in 1918 (53 now) and date of birth February 22, 1882. (There was a note that this must have been an error for she was 36 at the time and that her correct birth date should have been 1892.) In California was correspondent for Los Angeles Examiner.

"BRUNDIN was her married name - was divorced at time - married August 24, 1912 ERNEST W. BRUNDIN - husband obtained divorce, grounds desertion."

The notes further reflect that SMEDLEY knew

The notes also indicate that she wrote to her husband at Calexico, California and the name of W. Sw. WOTHERSPOON, 289 Edgewood Avenue, San Francisco, also appeared in the notes. It might be noted that he was one of the defendants in California. There was also the following notation: "Miss SMEDLEY used name of MARIE ROGERS in storing books."

The file also contained a photostat of the following letter dated New York City, May 15, 1918, addressed, "Dear Friend":

"As one who stands for democracy and justice you ought to be interested in the case of AGNES SMEDLEY.

"She is a young American girl who has just been released under $10,000 bail after an eight weeks' imprisonment in the Toombs. She is charwith representing herself as a member of the INDIA NATIONALIST PARTY, who working for the independence of India.

A further review of the files revealed a letter dated April 6, 1918 from the Bureau of Investigation, Washington, D. C. to CHARLES DE WOODY, New York, in which he was requested to secure a copy of the book entitled, "THEXISOLATION OF JAPAN IN WORLD POLITICS." The letter indicated that this book was being published at 45 Greenwich Avenue, New York City. The Department also wanted to know something about the author and persons behind the publication.

A report of G. P. PUTNAM, dated at New York City April 15, 1918 advised that he called at 45 Greenwich Avenue, which is the address of the De PAWPHILIS PRESS, on April 11, and was advised that on the previous day agents of the United States Army Intelligence took from the shop all of the copies of the book and other data relative thereto. PUTNAM ascertained that AGNES SMEDLEY BRUNDIN was the author and she was under indictment and at that time was in the Toombs, in connection with the Indian revolutionary matters. This report further reflected that PUTNAM called the Army Intelligence and was informed by them that the seized copies had been turned over to United States Attorney KNOX.

A further review of the New York Field Division files revealed an article which appeared in the New York Daily News of January 8, 1937 bearing the A. P. Symbol at Sianfu, Shensi Province, January 7, entitled, "U. S. WOMAN TEACHER LEADS REVOLT IN CHINA." The article is as follows:

"A quarter of a million army men were reported today to have joined in a movement to create a great Communist state in Northwest China with an American woman playing a spectacular role in the uprising."

The article goes on to state that AGNES SMEDLEY, former Colorado school teacher and long associated with radical movements in Asia was described as conducting radio propaganda to unite large disaffected military units in Shensi and Kansu Province under the Red banner in defiance of the Nanking Government. The article continues that some 200,000 soldiers formerly pelongment to the Northwest Communist Suppression Army of Marshall CHANG HSUEH, LIANG, teliable reports said, joined 50,000 of their Red ex-enemies to make the two Northwestern Provinces one large Communist-ruled community.

Sianfu seemed doomed, observers feared, to recurrence of the disorders of the December 13, 1936 uprising when Marshal CHANG and his followers mutinied, seized Generalissimo CHIANG KAI SHEK and demanded re-admission of Communists to Chinese political life to form a common front for war against Japan.

Generalissimo CHIANG was freed Christmas day. CHANG was sentenced to ten years in prison and then pardoned by the Generalissimo.

"In the forefront of the new campaign, said reliable sources, is Miss SMEDLEY. Every few hours she has been broadcasting in English appeals for recruits for the Red uprising against Nanking. Miss SMEDLEY is understood to be a close friend of Madame SUN YAT SEN, widow of the father of the Chinese revolution. Madame SUN is a sister of Madame CHIANG KAI SHEK, who long has been estranged from her brother-in-law, the Generalissimo. It was CHIANG who expelled the Reds from the Nationalist Party and Government in 1927."

Further review of the files also reflects an article appearing in the New York Sun, dated January 7, 1937, entitled "U. S. WOMAN AIDS CHINESE REDS." The contents of the article appearing in the "Sun" were approximately the same as previously set out out herein and also contained the following additional information:

"Miss SMEDLEY's activities have been confined to radio propaganda. Every few hours she broadcasts appeals in English for new recruits to the movement. Her propagandizing, it was reported, has brought opposition from British residents in the interior provinces who recall her deportation from India some years ago, where she was alleged to have conspired to provoke a Nationalist uprising. Only recently she was reported living in Shanghai, coming to Senfu about the time of Marshal CHANG's revolt of December 12."

The article also commented on Miss SMEDLEY's imprisonment in the Toombs in 1918 and also stated that thereafter she became interested in the work of MARGARET SANGER and that she subsequently opened the first birth control clinic in Berlin, and from there she went to China to gather Chinese news for the Indian press and for newspapers in Frankfort and Berlin. The article further stated that in recent years she had been lecturing and writing, usually forecasting great disaster for China when the foreign powers intervened to crush the Red Army.

At the Barbizon Plaza Hotel, 101 West 58th Street, New York City, , assistant manager, advised that their records reflect that AGNES SMEDLEY registered at that hotel on March 7, 1945 giving as her residence address Yaddo, Saratoga Springs, New York. He further stated that Mrs. AMES gave as a reference the Adirondack Trust Company, Saratoga Springs, New York and she gave as her firm name and address, Corporation of Yaddo, Saratoga Springs, New York. further indicated that the T-symbol alongside the credit card indicated an exceptionally good financial rating. He was unable to furnish any further information as to SMEDLEY and stated that that was the first record of her having registered at his hotel.

In an effort to ascertain the correct name of the friends with whom Miss SMEDLEY resided on her return to New York City from the 23rd to the 29th of March, the Boston Field Division was requested to check at the Copley Plaza Hotel for a forwarding address. The Boston Field Division on April 17 advised that SMEDLEY was registered at the Copley Plaza from March 15, 1945 to 10:30 A. M. March 20, 1945 and that she had left without leaving a forwarding address; that office also advised that upon registering she gave as her residence address, Yaddo, Saratoga Springs, New York.

A check of "Who's Who in America" from 1934 to 1944 was made on the name of AGNES SMEDLEY with negative results.

At the Bureau of Criminal Identification, New York Police Department, New York City, Special Employee Investigator checked the records and the only information contained therein are two references to New York newspapers, namely the "New York American" dated March 19, 1918 and the "New York Herald Tribune" dated March 28, 1918. No records of actual arrest by the New York Police Department were reflected.

At the New York Public Library, Fifth Avenue and 42nd Street, a check of the indices reflected AGNES SMEDLEY as being the authoress of the following books:

A check of the 20th Century Authors, a biographical dictionary, at the New York Public Library and a subsequent check of the files of the "New York Times" morgue revealed two biographical sketches on AGNES SMEDLEY, the most recent of which was the one published in January, 1944 in "Current Biography" by the H. W.Wilson Company, 950 University Avenue, Bronx, New York City. It might be noted that both biographies were published by the same company.

AGNES SMEDLEY's business address was given as care of A. A. Knopf, Inc., 501 Madison Avenue, New York City. The biography states that SMEDLEY was born in 1894 in northern Missouri, the daughter of CHARLES H. and SARAH (RALLIS) SMEDLEY. While young the family moved to the Colorado mining country where Rockefeller's Colorado Fuel & Iron Company owned everything but the air. The article stated SMEDLEY spent one year as a special student in the Normal School at Tempe, Arizona and met and married a young engineer but he soon divorced her. In her early twenties she went to New York City where she worked during the day and attended lectures at New York University at night and became absorbed in the problems of India. In 1918, because of her work in the Indian revolutionary cause she was accused of aiding German espionage. (The article stated a German society had sent money to the Indian Nationalists.)

The article then stated she went to Germany after the war and met the young Indian revolutionary leader VIRENDRANATH VIREN CHATTOPADHYAYA and for eight years she was considered his wife. The article stated his Catholic wife refused to divorce him. With the rise of Hitler VIREN fled Germany and sought refuge in Moscow. In Berlin SMEDLEY had been teach English to University students. In 1927 she wrote her semi-biographic novel, "Daughter of Earth." In 1928 she went to China as correspondent of the "Frankfurter-Zeitung". In 1933 she wrote of her experiences in

"Chinese Destinies." The article further stated that AGNES SMEDLEY claimed she has never been a Communist, when some critics pointed out the book's Communist bias. She claimed that for years she listened to Communists with sympathy and in later years in China she gave them her active support, "but I could never place my life and mind unquestioned at the disposal of their leaders."

In 1938 her third book, China Fights Back", a story of the 8th Route Army, was published. In 1943 her fourth book, a full record of her years 1929 to 1941 in China, was published. Here she makes it clear that she likes neither CHIANG KAZ SHEK nor the Kuominting Government, which she foars is a reactionary clique. The article stated that from 1938 to 1941 AGNES SMEDLEY worked as a publicist and field worker for the Chinese Red Cross medical corps and late in December, 1941 she returned to the United States to recuperate from several attacks of malaria and other illnesses.

The article stated that in a radio program entitled, "Author Meets Critic", November 1943, Miss SMEDLEY emphasized the fact that the United States and Great Britain are largely responsible for the backward conditions in China today because of their imperialistic foreign policies. In the winter of 1944, the article stated, Miss SMEDLEY was working on a play about China and she also has in mind a revolutionary novel on the same thing. It also stated in her lectures and radio appearances she is busy in carrying out her primary aim of "enlightening America on the plight of the Chinese." The article went on to state that apart from her writing, farming is her chief recreation; also, that JAWAHARLAB NEHRU is her political and intellectual ideal and she considers his biography, "Toward Freedom", (1941) one of the greatest books of her times.

The biography in the Twentieth Century Office written in 1942, published by H. W. Wilson Company, contains substantially the same information as previously set out herein.

In commenting on her arrest in New York City during the time of the first World War, this article states she was arrested on the ground that her activities jeopardized the neutrality of the United States. It was also stated that the late Reverend Dr. PERCY STICKNEY GRANT, a liberal New York rector, raised the bail to secure SMEDLEY's release and that the case was later dismissed for lack of evidence. This article stated that at the outbreak of the Chinese revolution Miss SMEDLEY went to China as a correspondent for German and Italian left-wing newspapers and she had remained there ever since and was at that time in the interior of China where she lived as one of the people, and almost as a member of the 8th Route Army.

AL 100-9125

The article went on to state that she has long since changed her beliefs from Socialism to Communism and since 1929 has interpreted Chinese Communism to the world. It continued by stating that up until that time she had risked her life many times but felt that she had found her place in the world and was not likely to ever leave China. The article states that she speaks and writes Chinese and has adopted a Chinese refugee boy as her foster child; that she is familiar with parts of China that other white persons have seldom seen.

The article continues by stating that although her books posit the Communist position and are besides necessarily often hasty and fragmentary they are of great value as reports on conditions unreported otherwise. DAVID H.POPPER called her "that redoubtable fighter for the rights of the underdog, a devoted partisan who confesses to passionate likes and dislikes, yet studies always to tell the truth as she sees it, with blazing sincerity."

This biography indicated two articles written on AGNES SMEDLEY, the first a review of "Daughter of Earth" in the "China Weekly Review" of September 19, 1931 and an article on AGNES SMEDLEY in the "Saturday Review of Literature", July 16, 1938.

The revised edition of "Daughter of Earth", 1935, contains a foreword by MALCOLM COWLEY in which he states that this book is a story of a girl with very poor background, with many of the characters invented, but in its broad outlines is also the story of the author, AGNES SMEDLEY. He stated that while it was fiction, interwoven with all this is another element more international in its nature. "To me, the underlying theme is the education of a revolutionist."

A check of "Chinese Destinies" was made but it failed to contain a foreword. A check was also made of "Red Flood Over China" which is practically a reprint of "China's Red Army Marches" and it likewise contains no foreword.

A check of "China's Red Army Marches" revealed that it contained a preface by ROBERT MORSSCLOVETT. LOVETT states that in 1919 he became interested in the case of a young Indian who was being held in the Toombs in New York City and that through him became acquainted with AGNES SMEDLEY. He stated that through her efforts this Indian was released on reduced bail but that his case was only one of many cases of persecution of Indian refugees in this country at the instance of British authorities. LOVETT stated that when the Indians, who had been arrested on the day after the United States entered the World War and convicted of conspiracy to ship arms to India, were released after their sentences had expired, efforts were made to deport them to India.

LOVETT went on to state that a society, "Friends of Freedom for India" was organized and Miss SMEDLEY was secretary. He continued, stating that this society sought to protect these men in their right of asylum and at every point, "We came up against the powerful influence of British, representatives, towards whom American citizens and officials showed a complaisance which was disgusting."

He further stated that the British Government took this society very seriously and one of the executive committee members was deported from England; that JAMES MAURER was refused a visa and ROGER BALDWIN, presently with the "American Civil Liberties Union", was granted only a week to visit England on parole to a member of Parliament. LOVETT further stated that the full vials of imperial wrath were reserved for AGNES SMEDLEY. He advised that SMEDLEY left the United States for Germany in 1920 and then went to Soviet Russia on a study commission for six months, returning to Germany and remained there until 1928, where she participated in the Indian revolutionary movement. She was sent to China as a correspondent of the "Frankfurter Zeitung" and arrived in Manchuria on January 1, 1929, where she found herself in difficulty with the British Raj.

LOVETT stated that in Harbin she almost lost her American passport as the British Secret Service claimed she was a British subject traveling on a forged American passport. He stated that she traveled through North China where she "learned of the unspeakable atrocities perpetrated by the Kuomintang in an effort to suppress a revolution." LOVETT stated that in 1930 she went to Canton where she was again arrested at the instance of the British Secret Police, who had revived the charge that she was not an American citizen but was traveling on a false passport and asserted that she was a representative of the Communist International. LOVETT indicated that he assisted her here through JOSEPH COTTON, then Assistant Secretary of State.

LOVETT also stated that SMEDLEY later wrote, "It was the German and American Consuls who saved my life, although I must say the American Consul General seemed to resent this necessary duty very much. He was an old colonial official and regarded my ideas about the independence of Asiatic countries as treasonable." LOVETT also stated that the German merchants in Shanghai brought pressure to have the "Frankfurter-Zeitung" remove her. She stated that the German Consul General had previously demanded that she write favorable reports to stimulate exports from Germany.

LOVETT indicated that the British Consul at Frankfort made similar requests of the "Frankfurter-Zeitung" to have her removed and that the British journalists in China launched outrageous personal attacks against how. LOVETT stated as a result of this she was dismissed from the paper but remaind in China and joined up with Mrs. SUN YAT-SEN and others in organizing the "China League for Civil Rights." LOVETT states this organization demanded freedom of speech, press and assembly and to fight against the secret tribunals by which political prisoners were tortured and killed. LOVETT also stated that the Kuomintang Government opposed this organization, threatening the leaders with death unless they ceased campaigning for Bolshevist principles. LOVETT continues:

"One of the mysteries of the last few years has been the Soviet state within China. Since the alliance between the Kuomintang and the Communists was broken and the Nanking Government, leaning on the Western powers, threw out the Russian Ambassador and undertook to suppress the revolutions to which it owed its being, the American public has read vague accounts of a cam aign launched each year against those who are described by our correspondents as bandits. In 'China's Red Army Marches', Miss SMEDLEY gave a vivid and authentic narrative of the campaign from 1928 to 1931." He continues later,

"It is clear that Communism, if it triumphs in China, will succeed by virtue of its immediate appeal to the needs of the people and no less clear that its success will be due not to arms but to persuasion. The political department is the most important feature of the Red Army, to whose activities is due the favorable reception by the peasantry and the great defections from the Whites who so often respond to the appeal not to shoot down their countrymen. It is hard to resist the conclusion that the Soviet provinces are the best governed of all China and any competent observer of the world situation will agree that the best hope for peace in the Far East is that China and Japan should both go Communist and fall into each other's arms."

AL 100-9125

In speaking of SMEDLEY, LOVETT continues, "AGNES SMEDLEY is an American in the historic sense of the $w\phi rd$. In the face of indifference and disapproval of her time-saving countrymen and the insidious and dangerous hostility of an enemy on whose malevolence the sun never sets, she has kept the faith and told the truth."

A review of "Book Review Digest" for 1934 at the New York Public Library reflects that T. A BISSON wrote a review of SMEDLEY's "China's Red Army Marches" in the "Nation", Volume 139, page 307, September 12, 1934, part of which reads as follows:

"In 'China's Red Army Mrches', AGNES SMEDLEY records, in superb narrative episodes the formative years in one of the great creative movements of our area, the building of the Chinese Soviet Republic. The sweep of the matchless drama - 50,000 Chinese peasants and workers rising up to overthrow an age-old system of exploitation - is captured within the pages of this book. With the skill of the novelist she drives home the searing realities of the clash of forces in present day China through the life stories of individual persons."

In "China Fights Back", written by SMEDLEY in 1938, appears an introduction by Anna Louise Strong. In speaking of SMEDLEY, Miss STRONG writes:

"Working for Madame SUN YAT SEN for civil liberties in China, for the rights of workers, of farmers, of Communists, she became for many years almost the one foreigner in Shanghai to whose doors came the inside tales of the Chinese Soviet Districts. Thus, she wrote, 'Chinese Destinies' and 'China's Red Army Marches', which were translated into many foreign languages, as almost the only foreign account of the Chinese Communists in those years, her own life was frequently in danger, her very closeness to the Chinese Red Army, prevented her for many years from visiting them, since she was constantly watched."

Miss STRONG points out that she finally joined the Red Army, reorganized as the 8th Route Army, and the last time Miss STRONG saw her was in 1938 in Hankow, where she was raising funds for medical supplies and warm clothes for peasant volunteers of the north.

In the July 16, 1938 issue of "Saturday Review" appears a book review of AGNES SMEDLEY's "China Fights Back" by DAVID H. POPPER of the staff of the Foreign Policy Association. He stated in this review that since 1929 Miss SMEDLEY has interpreted Chinese Communism to the world; that she spent most of 1937 in the Communist districts and in the forces of the Red - now 8th Route Army. The book is essentially a diary of Miss SMEDLEY's adventures with the Army from August 19, 1937 to January 9, 1938. He states that it depicts the successes of these forces in guerrilla warfare against the invading Japs. POPPER continues:

"Today, in her mind, the social struggle in China must be subordinated to the overriding task of beating back the Japs' imperialist drive. But the final victory must and will be delayed until China is freed from the grip of entrenched wealth and privilege - until the reforms demanded by the Communists are consummated."

There also appears a picture of AGNES SMEDLEY in the uniform of the Chinese Red Army, taken with her foster son.

A check of the book "Battle Hymn of China" published in 1943 failed to reveal that the same contains a preface or foreword.

In the September 19, 1931 issue of the "China Weekly Review" formerly "Millard's Review", Shanghai, Volume 58, appears an editorial entitled, "AGNES SMEDLEY and the Shanghai Die-Hards." It might be noted that the "China Weekly Review" was at that time edited by J. B. POWELL; that GEORGE W. MISSEIER was assistant editor; HOH CHIEHASHIANG was assistant editor; ROY P. MACNAR, JR. was advertising manager and F. K. CHOO was in charge of the business department. The editorial states that AGNES SMEDLEY had for the past three years been a correspondent with the German "Frankfurter-Zeitung" and contributed articles to the "New Republic" and the "Nation." The editorial commented on her book "Daughter of Earth" and the fact that some of her articles on work with Chinese women had been reproduced in the "Review."

The editorial further stated that Miss SMEDLEY became interested and an ardent advocate of, Indian nationalism and acquainted with a well-known Indian nationalist, V. CHATTOPADHYAYA, who was a member of the Naidu family of India, which compared somewhat in its revolutionary activities to the SUN YAT SEN-SOONG families in China. The editorial also stated that Miss SMEDLEY had recently been subjected to considerable underhanded persecution as a result of a communication which she sent to one of the local newspar pertaining to the NOULENS case. The editorial went on to state that her liberal views on Chinese and Indian revolutionary movements, become known to a number of German and European liberals, many members of the "League Against Imperialism."

The editorial stated that Miss SMEDLEY was not a member of that organization but had received telegrams from members outside China due to her connections with the German newspapers asking clemency for NOULENS who was on trial in Nanking on a sedition charge. The editorial stated that several telegrams had been sent to Madame SUN XAT SEN. It continued, "In our opinion this sympathy for NOULENS was not worth the effort because the published documents in his case, providing they are genuine, have shown him to be a dangerous intriguer against the Chinese government and Chinese institutions generally. However, Miss SMEDLEY and Madame SUN did pass these letters appealing for clemency for NOULENS over to the Chinese authorities and to the local newspapers."

The editorial further stated that the "League Against Imperialism" is not Communistic, although it may contain Communists in its membership. Due to receiving those letters "a number of local die-hards have made allegations that Miss SMEDLEY is a Communist and the League is Communist, both charges are false and we are printing these paragraphs for the purpose of acquainting the public with the facts. We are glad to do so because the "Review" has at times been subjected to similar underhanded attacks. There are certain individuals, well known, in the foreign communities on the China coast who assume that any American journalist who is sympathetic towards the cause of Indian nationalism must, for that reason, be a Communist. Two or three years ago we called attention to the fact that practically every American newspaper writer who visited these shores in search of information regarding the Nationalist movement in Oriental countries was immediately placed under surveillance and subjected to persecution in the form of lying campaigns, the general purpose being to discredit their work."

The editorial ended by a statement that Miss SMEDLEY was registered with the local American Consulate General.

A review of "China To Me" published in 1944 by the "Country Life Press", Garden City, New York, and written by EMILY HAHN, reflected the following information pertaining to AGNES SMEDLEY. On page 99 Miss HAHN states:

"The average American today who takes a sympathetic interest in China is full of hooey through no fault of his. He thinks the Chinese Guerrillas are the only soldiers who do any fighting in China. As a truth most of their effort is lost, because of inter-guerrilla arguments and jealousy and thisaking. I am not trying to run them down, AGNES SMEDLEY, ED SNOW and JOHN LARLSON, I am trying only to undo some of the harm you have unwittingly done your friends. You have worked people up into a state where they are going to be awfully mad pretty soon." She continues,

"Now the Communists - that situation is due to the peculiarity of most American newspaper men in China, who are nearly all of them inclined to be leftists, out of a frustrated sense of guilt, a superior viewpoint of things as they are, and a tendency to follow the crowd of newspapermen. Most newspapermen don't know any more about the Communists in China than you do. They hear rumors and they try to get permission to go see these people, and once in a great while someone does. But the chances of seeing what really goes on among the Chinese Communists are even less than those of seeing the inside of Russia. If you live in Chunking you can always interview CHOU EN LAI - that is what he is there for."

On page 220, Miss HAHN mentions meeting AGNES SMEDLEY in Hong King after years of wandering about with the guerrillas and working with Dr. ROBERT LIM for the Chinese Red Cross. Miss HAHN stated the first time she had met Miss SMEDLEY she was in Shanghai when she was doing secretarial work for Madame SUN. At Hong Kong she was in a hospital suffering from gall bladder trouble and there was present in the government circles an uneasy feeling that Hong Kong should not be too hospitable to AGNES SMEDLEY as she was considered as a dangerous woman. They felt the Reds and Anarchists should be left alone.

Miss HAHN continues, "The police had been on the case and only the fact that AGNES SMEDLEY was a close friend of Mrs. HILDANSELWYN-CLARKE, wife of the Director of Medical Services, saved her from being requested to leave before her gall bladder could be attended to. AGNES had promised not to make any public speeches or otherwise disturb the peace of the colony."

It might be interesting to here note that in the "Nation" of January 27, 1945 T. A. BISSON wrote a review of "China To Me." In this review BISSON criticized the author for running down SNOW XEVANS, SMEDLEY and the leftists in China. He stated as follows:

"Both China and the leftists may perhaps manage to outlive EMILY HAMN'S commentary."

"Important evidence bearing on a plot to cause uprisings in India against British rule has come into the possession of the Government as a result of the arrest yesterday of AGNES SMEDLEY, an American girl, also known as AGNES BRUNDIN, and SAILENDRA NATH GHOSE, a Hindu, who is prominent in the activities of an organization which calls itself the "Indian Nationalist Party", with headquarters in Jajose Castle, Calcutta. Not only do the data which the Government has obtained as a result of the arrest involve plots in India, but they also disclose the fact that LEON TROTSKY, the deposed Bolshevist Foreign Minister of Russia, was recently appealed to for aid in stirring up trouble in India, and was asked to use his influence against the United States in arresting and bringing to trial Hindus and others who plotted in the United States against British sovereignty."

The article also stated that the Government considered the case connected with a world-wide German directed plot to cause trouble in India and thereby weaken the British effectiveness on the western front in France. The article stated that SMEDLEY's bond was set at $10,000 and that she had been arrested in a Greenwich Village apartment and had refused to talk. The article stated that the defendants had been representing themselves to be diplomatic representatives of the Nationalist Party of India, which was a violation of the Espionage Act.

The file also contained a clipping of an article which appeared in the "New York Herald" on March 20, 1918, wherein it was stated a letter of introduction to LOUIS LOCHNER, a pacifist, and signed by TARAK NATH DAS, a Hindu who was under indictment in San Francisco on a charge of conspiracy to stir up a revolt in India, was found by Federal Agents on the previous day among the papers seized in the SMEDLEY apartment.

The file also contained a clipping of an article which appeared in the "New York Sun" dated March 28, 1918, wherein it was stated that a Federal Grand Jury indictment had been filed on March 27, 1918 charging AGNES SMEDLEY. "active radical worker", with violation of the Espionage Act, and that GHOSE was being held for extradition to San Francisco, where he was charged with having plotted to ship arms to India for an uprising to be launched by ABHINANA BHARAT and German agents. The article stated Miss SMEDLEY was accused of having aided him in circulating a book entitled "Isolation of Japan in World Politics", through which plotters hoped to cause friction between Japan and this country by threatening Americans into believing Japan was about to build a navy to equal that of Britain and the United States.

There was also contained a clipping which appeared in the "New York Times" on June 12, 1918, bearing a San Francisco date of June 11, 1918, wherein it was stated that indictments had been returned by a Federal Grand Jury in San Francisco on June 11, 1918 against Professor S. NATH GHOSE, TARAK NATH DAS, KULIN B. BOSE, WILLIAM A WOTHERSPOON, retired San Francisco lawyer, AGNES SMEDLEY, of New York City, and BLUMA ZALNIK, a Russian, accusing them of attempting to defraud President Wilson through representations that they were on an accredited mission from the Nationalist Party of India.

There was also contained a newspaper clipping which appeared in the "New York Times" on November 16, 1918 in which it was stated that Federal Judge A. N. HAND had granted a stay to defendants SALLENDRA NATH GHOSE, a Hindu student at New York University, and AGNES SMEDLEY, who were under indictment in San Francisco for representing themselves as members of a commission of the Indian Nationalist Party without being registered with the Secretary of State, LANSING.

The article also stated that Judge HAND had reduced the bail of each. There was also an article which appeared in the "New York World" of March 15, 1929 pertaining to SMEDLEY's first novel, "Daughter of Earth." The article contained considerable information regarding her background and, commenting on the trial, stated that when she was brought to trial approximately a year after the indictment the case was dismissed for lack of evidence.

There was also contained a newspaper clipping which appeared in the "New York Times" of July 30, 1932 with a date line from Shanghai, China, which stated that HAROLD I TSAACS, reporter for the "New York Times" in Shanghai, had been warned by the United States Consular Mauthorities in China that extraterritorial protection would be withdrawn unless he changed his editorial and news policies in the weekly publication "The China Forum", which he edited. The article stated that the "Forum" had been attacking Marshal CHIANG KAI SHEK and other Nanking leaders. The article also stated that ISAACS had been associated with AGNES SMEDLEY, one of the noted revolutionary workers and actively supporting PAUL and GERTRUDE NOULENS, a foreign couple then on trial for their lives in Nanking on charges of aiding the Communist conspiracy to overthrow the Government. The article stated that the NOULENS were unable to establish citizenship entitling them to extraterritorial protection.

A news clipping appeared in the July 9, 1934 issue of the "New York World Telegram" written by GERALDIMASORTAIN stated that she had interviewed AGNES SMEDLEY in her Greenwich Village apartment and SMEDLEY had stated

China was at that time on the brink of what may be the greatest disaster in history, armed intervention of the foreign powers to crush the powerful Red Army of Soviet China.

The article stated that Miss SMEDLEY described the "mass upsurge of the peasants and intellectuals in China as the most gigantic struggle of modern times." She accused CHIANG KAI SHEK of betraying the real revolution in China.

There was also contained an article which appeared in the "New York Times" of January 10, 1937, the same being a news dispatch from Nanking, China dated January 9, 1937, which stated that a Chinese Government spokesman had stated the Chinese Government was "highly indignant" over the anti-Government, pro-Communist broadcasts made almost daily from Sian by "an American woman, AGNES SMEDLEY." Her talks have been highly inflammatory and her remarks were in behalf of the Communist cause." The Chinese stated that they had been watching Miss SMEDLEY's activities for some years "and were formerly under the impression she was merely a writer with radical leanings, now they know she is a member of the Communist Party and this has added to their concern."

The article further stated that the official issuing the statement stated that she had strongly advocated the united front idea and other projects conflicting with established Government policies. "She has also tried to give the impression that all China was being dominated by the Chinese Communists." The article indicated that the official had been asked whether the Chinese Government would make representations to the American authorities relative to Miss SMEDLEY's activities and the spokesman had stated nothing had been done as yet.

There was also contained a news clipping from the May, 1937 issue of the "New York Herald Tribune" which was a published letter from AGNES SMEDLEY dated March 27, 1937 from Yennanfu N Shensi, China, addressed to the "New York Herald Tribune". In her letter Miss SMEDLEY stated she had heard articles had appeared in the press connecting her with the Chinese Communist Party and with the Communist International and she stated they are "simply charging me with conducting Communist propaganda." She further stated that her pictures appeared in an American magazine referring to her as NAU TSE TUNG's ally and a recent article in the "China Weekly Review" of Shanghai stated her to be an adviser to the Red leaders. In her letter Miss SMEDLEY branded those statements as false and claimed to be a free lance writer, writing with directions from anyone. She stated she had been in the Soviet regions collecting material for a new book and had no connection with the Communist Party anywhere.

There was also contained a clipping from the March 28, 1938 "New York Times", which was a news dispatch from Hankow dated March 27. This article stated that AGNES SMEDLEY had been prominent in the work of gathering supplies and as representing the American League for Peace and Democracy in Hankow and that she had announced the formation of a China Committee of the China Aid Council, recently organized by the League.

The article further stated that T. V. SOONG and Dr. ROBERT LIM of the Chinese Red Cross were on the Committee. There was also a news clipping from the "New York Times" of April 18, 1940 which was based on a wireless received from Chungking on April 17, 1940, which stated that AGNES SMEDLEY, well-known American writer and left wing political worker, had arrived in Chungking after spending 18 months with the Chinese guerrilas in Andwei and was enroute to the Kweiyang headquarters of the Chinese Red Cross with which she was connected.

There was also a news clipping taken from the August 25, 1943 issue of the "New York Herald Tribune" which article was in regard to an interview with AGNES SMEDLEY; this was stated to be her first interview since returning to America soon after Pearl Harbor. The article stated that she had been recuperating from an illness contracted in the Chinese interior. It further stated that she had been a correspondent for the "Manchester Guardian."

The article stated that she had been interviewed in the home of a friend in Greenwich Village. It stated she had first gone to China in 1928 and after the invasion of China had managed to get to the front with the 8th Route Army and in 1938 had become a field worker for the Chinese Red Cross and for the next four years she had marched with the Chinese Army. The article continued that she was in New York City attending to details of her new book, "Battle Hymn of China" to be released by ALFRED A. KNOPF on September 7, 1943. There was also a clipping from the "New York Times" of January 28, 1945 which stated that AGNES SMEDLEY in speaking at the Vassar College Political Association stated that through years of association with Chinese she felt the only basis for unity in China was a coalition government, "a government is needed which will abolish the Kuomintang Party dictatorship, institute a bill of rights and end the three systems of secret police."

At the Library for the Blind, newspaper section, 137 West 25th Street, New York City, the "Daily Worker" of September 1, 1934 was made available in which appeared a book review of "China's Red Army Marches" by ISIDORE SCHNEIDER. The article starts out by criticizing the book of KENNETH LATOURETTE, former Yale professor, published earlier than 1934 because it only devoted one paragraph to the establishment of the Chinese Soviet and what it told was a lie. The reviewer stated that AGNES SMEDLEY's book is the story of the most inspiring revolutionary achievement since the Russian revolution, a movement which all revolutionary workers should learn about.

The article goes on to describe the territory being conquered by the Soviets and also the Nanking Government is accused of permitting horrifying atrocities. The review continues by stating the Chinese Communists had to purge themselves and the purged and steeled party held its first congress in November, 1931 and at this congress the Chinese Socialist Soviet Republic was born.

The reviewer stated the inspiring story of AGNES SMEDLEY, which she tells so vividly and so powerfully; the story that there is no strangenes or remoteness even in the Chinese names; that the people the book deals with are our comrades; we are close to them; their struggle is ours; that brings us so near the world revolutionary front; that lets us see, in the very process and as if we were there, the construction of the Second Socialist Soviet Republic.

In this article SMEDLEY goes on to state, "Chinese propagandists in the United States coming from the ruling class of their country would have us believe that everything would be all right if only the 'malcontents and subversive elements' would 'tremble and obey.' "She further states that upon returning to "my own country" after nearly a quarter of a century in foreign lands, "I found an America - this was before Pearl Harbor - which I could hardly recognize....From far away China I had come to glamorize my native land as a land of pure and just: democracy. I suffered from, but could not understand entirely, why America sold war materials to Japan, and I thought it due to ignorance of our people of the Far East. So upon my return I tried to enlighten them.

"Few were interested. Many thought me a 'subversive element.'
Business men attacked me as a threat to their Japanese trade....."

She continued, "Viewing my own country I thought of a people rushing toward their doom, without thinking of anything beyond their own private interests. Above all, they resented deeply any new idea that disturbed them in their rush forward--to what? In fact, it sometimes seemed dangerous to question anything, to cry out: 'Halt! Think! You ARE your brother's keeper!'
.....During our recent elections, and for years before, we realized that though Hitler's Army might be defeated, militarily, on the battlefield, still the basic Nazi philosophy of the super-race had sunk deep roots in our country. The Nazi propaganda against Jews and the colored races seems to be as wide-spread in our country as in Germany. Our reactionaries have tried, and failed, to come to power by raising racial and class hatred, but their failure is but temporary. The idea that working men and women, or those who are not native-born citizens, or those who were not of the Christian faith, are second-grade citizens, has been openly propagated.

"These issues came before our people in tragically dramatic form after the CIO organized its Political Action Committee. Congressmen and our great industrial and financial barons whom they represented, had nightmares when the CIO-PAC was organized. SIDNEY HILLMAN, the PAC leader was called a Jew and a pants-maker, though the very men who raised this charge pretend to worship Jesus, who was a Jew, and who Himself had been a carpenter and a rebel. Only Mapanese propaganda throughout Asia forced us to revise our exclusion laws against Chinese and to give up the old unequal treaties which the western powers had harnessed on China following the defeat of China in the British Opium War of 1839-42. Our great newspapers and magazines, such as the Luce publications, began to propagate a new brand of imperialism, saying this is the 'American Century:' that America will determine the future fate of the world.

"Because of all such developments, I joined the National Citizen's Political Action Committee, which originally arose as an adjunct of the CIO-PAC. Progressive Americans throughout the country who were not members of labor unions, allied themselves with this organization in order to prevent reactionaries from coming to power. Together with the CIO-PAC we achieved that one purpose, though we existed for only a year and a half before the elections."

The article goes on to state, "As I see it, the future role of the National Citizen's PAC is a militant educational one......The question-a life and death question -- for us is: are we going to become a politically enlightened people who understand every issue of our country and of the world? Are we going to go on, as in the past, leaving politics in the hands of professional politicians who, in most cases, are representatives of the great industrial and financial barons of our country? Are we going to be, as before the war, mortally afraid of every new idea that might disturb the groove in which our minds run? Are we going to approach the mighty peoples' resistance movements of Europe and Asia as if they were a menace to our pocket-books, even when most of our pocketbooks are flat? Are we going to continue to regard Soviet Russia as a poisonous country in the clutch of Communists who have beards, horns and hooves, armed with a bomb in one hand and a dagger through the teeth, as the Hearst press delights to picture them? Are we going to be afraid to lister to or sit in the presence of a progressive American lest we catch Communism? Are we afraid of studying and discussing and thinking in order to know just what are the social theories of Socialism or Communism? Or, for that matter, of Democracy?.....

"The role of the CIO-PAC and of the National Citizen's PAC is to enlighten the American mind, to replace fear and hatred with knowledge and with a course of civilized political action...."

She closes the article with the statement, "We possess the political democratic machinery with which to become a torch in the world's darkness. But will we prepare ourselves to uso it?"

In the same issue of the "Skidmore News" of December 7, 1944, there is an article with the heading, "AGNES SMEDLEY Leads 300 in Letter of Protest to President and State Department." The article goes on to state, "On Tuesday night the Recreation Center was the scone of a spontaneous expression of campus indignation against the imperialistic policy of the British government toward the Greek people."

The letter, which was sent to President Roosevelt, the State Department, Senators MEAD and WAGNER, the "New York Times", the "New York Tribune", "PM", the "Saratogian" and colleges throughout the country, was signed by over 300 students and faculty members of Skidmore College and citizens of Saratoga Springs.

The letter, which was dated December 5, 1944, protested the cold-blooded massage of Greek patriots of the Resistance Forces in the streets of Athens this past Sunday. It stated that, "By our inaction towards this massacre, we sanction the deed and render ourselves a partner in this infamous affair." It protested the action of the British who are patrolling the streets of Athens with tanks, and who have brazenly ordered Greek citizens to leave their own city.

The letter went on to state, "It is hardly necessary for us to inform you, Mr. President, that we Americans were born in revolution, and our policy of supporting or tolerating in any respect British action in Greece, is a violation of the basic principles upon which our nation was founded. The eyes of all freedom-seeking countries are upon us Americans today, and we here believe that inon-intervention is isolationism. We refuse to allow fear of antagonizing our British ally to interfere with our basic principles of humanity and justice."

The article claims, "We Americans wish to support the 90 per cent of the Greek people who have fought and suffered for the freedom of their country for so long. The British government, however, is supporting a 10 per cent group of Greek collaborationists and a government of agents whom it appointed outside Greece and brought back to be in power over the Greek people. The British Government and its Generals and troops in Greece speak for themselves, but not for all the allies. Certainly they do not speak for the American people, and we believe they do not speak for the British people either. Neither we Americans nor the British people are interested in preserving British vested interest or the British appointed agents—crudely called the Greek Government—who protect these interests.

"By keeping silent about Greece, we eloquently approve British policy against the expressed will and desire of the Greek people.

"Furthermore, we do not believe it right for the Government of one nation--in this instance, the British--to choose and put in power the Government of another--in this instance, the Greeks.

"We learn that our Government has cut off relief supplies to the Greek people, and we interpret this as a deliberate act to support British troops and their Greek Fascist supporters, and to crush the people's liberation movement by starvation. We wish to inform you categorically that we Americans have paid for those relief supplies, and we now demand that they be delivered to the people of Greece....

"We wish to inform you further that we Americans do not intend to be caught sleeping at the switch of history a second time. We intend to follow every action of our Government's domestic and foreign policy, and to express our will to our elected representatives. In this instance, we demand support for the people of Greece who have appealed to our country for understanding and support against Greek and British reaction."

The files of the Albany Field Division also contain a copy of a publication, "Sikh Voice", Issue No. 2, dated December 1, 1944. This is a bulletin of Khalsa Diwan Society, Vancouver, B. C., Sikh Temple, 1866 West Second Avenue. On the second page of this bulletin under the heading "Speaking of India", there was an article entitled "NEHRU and JEFFERSON." The following comment is contained in this article:

"AGNES SMEDLEY, in a recent edition of 'The Voice of India', a Washington publication, has written an article in which she compares JAWAHARLAL WEHRU to THOMAS JEFFERSON, the historic American champion of liberty. The comparison is apt. In her article she records a number of opinions of various individuals, and their reaction to NEHRU's imprisonment."

There is set forth in this article a quotation of a professor who states, "To speak frankly, I am tired of the British Empire, and this includes the way they handle Indians." The professor's statement is to the effect that NEHRU embodies all the principles for which we are supposed to be fighting, yet they have locked him up for the eighth time. "They've taken half of his adult life."

In another quotation that AGNES SMEDLEY incorporated in her article comparing NEHRU and JEFFERSON, she sets forth a statement made by another individual, "What I want to know is what we are fighting for. If a man like NEHRU can spend years in prison, what in hell is this war about. What am I doing out here?" This statement from an American Sea-Bee in the South Pacific.

The article sets forth a paragraph, "The article pays tribute to NEHRU for his unflinching opposition to both fascism and the stranglehold that imperialists have maintained on his country. His courage in the face of powerful opposition to all of those things that he believes is such as to place him in the same position in the Indian scene as JEFFERSON occupied in the American."

"In closing, AGNES SMEDLEY states: 'On NEHRU's fifty-fifth birthday, I shall honor him as I honor THOMAS JEFFERSON who was the source of the best there is in American life. JEFFERSON is dead and we cannot call him back. NEHRU is living, and it is up to us to liberate him not after the war, but now, and to see that his voice and principles are heard and respected in all preparation for the post-war world'."

This article in the "Sikh Voice" appears in the "Voice of India", November, 1944 issue, Volume 1, No. 3. It appears on page 42 under the heading, "NEHRU and JEFFERSON by AGNES SMEDLEY."

The Albany Office is also in possession of a rough draft copy of a speech believed to be typewritten by AGNES SMEDLEY in which she attempts to relate an incident which demonstrates the origin of the present disunity in China. She claims that it is not an isolated incident but can be duplicated a thousand-fold in north, eastern and central China since 1940, when the Kuomintang blockade against the Communist-led 8th Route and New 4th Armies was established.

She goes on to state that in January, 1940 she was in the field headquarters of General CHANG TZE CHUNG, a northern General, who commanded the entire Chinese right-wing armies in the mountain ranges northwest of Hankow in central China. She claimed that she spent three months with Communist guerillas in that area with the permission of General CHANG.

In this speech SMEDLEY is loud in her praise for the Communist-led armies, namely the 8th Route and the New Fourth Armies, and claims that the Kuomintang government and its armies betrayed its own people by opperessing and alienating them until at times the people saw little difference between the Jaranese and the Kuomintang armies and officials.

She states in this speech, "As everyone who knows China realizes, the struggle is not between the Kuomintang and Communism. It is between reaction and democracy. The Communists have adopted and lived up to the only form of democracy which the Chinese people have ever known, and if it has weaknesses, these are inherent in the bitter conditions and hostility under which they labor and fight."

She further claims, "The Kuomintang has tried to circumvent these democratic demands by offering bribes to the Communists of a few seats in the government where they would have 'face' but no power. It agreed to a conference of political parties but on condition that this be a 'consultative' body or a kind of debating society with no power like the present People's Political Council. The Kuomintang agreed to recognize the legality of the Chinese Communist Party provided it surrendered its armies to the Kuomintang, a party of dictatorship whose record is black and filled with tyranny and corruption toward the Chinese people.

"I believe the Chinese Communists, and all Chinese democrats, would be guilty of treason to their people if they accepted these Kuomintang terms instead of holding out and fighting for democracy."

She goes on to state, "It is my conviction that if we continue to recognize the Kuomintang dictatorship and if we obey the Kuomintang demand that we land troops on China's coast and recapture the Communist-led guerrilla bases and turn them over to the Kuomintang, we will go down in history as an imperialist power. If we do this, we will eventually throw all China into a nation-wide civil war which will also sweep over into all southeast Asia, including India. That would bring liberation to Asiatic peoples, but it would cause decades of bloodshed and engender bitterness and suspicion for centuries.

"Should such a tragedy develop, I myself would quote Jefferson by saying: 'Rebellion to tyrants is obedience to God.' But there is another way—the democratic way. There is no other way. This way means, among countless other things, that in the forthcoming conference of the United Nations at San Francisco, that Chinese democrats, including the Chinese Communists, should have a voice. We cannot expect the Chinese people to abide by any decisions made against their will and interests."

On February 22, 1945 SMEDLEY also appeared on the program, Town Hall of the Air" over the radio at 8:00 P. M. Her speech was on China and she received a fee of $150.00 for this appearance.

On January 3, 1945 SMEDLEY gave a talk before the Rotary Club at Saratoga Springs, New York, and this office has a newspaper clipping from the "Saratogian" of January 4, 1945 reporting a portion of her talk. The news item states, "AGNES SMEDLEY, author and authority on Chinese affairs, took the Rotary Club behind the political scene in China yesterday and pictured an autocratic government so intent on retaining power that it has battled other Chinese instead of the Japs......She asserted that lease-lend goods from the United States were used by the CHIANG MAI-SHEK government against the so-called Communist guerilla forces even as Japanese armies were threatening to split China in two. Army trucks from the United States intended for the defense army, were used by civilian officials to cart off their household furnishings in the path of the advancing Japs.

"This situation, she said, was at the bottom of the demand by CHIANG for the recall of General JOSEPH W. STILWELL, who was commanding general of the United States forces in China and chief of staff to General CHIANG. General STILWELL had been refused adequate Chinese troops for training, and had sought to supervise the distribution and use of lease-lend supplies in China. CHIANG turned these requests down. Meantime there was available in North China a force of half a million men in the Communist-guerilla ranks whose appeal for a united China was rejected by the CHIANG administration, the author declared......

"She expressed the hope there might eventually develop a strong, united, democratic China. Meantime, she said, the nation is ruled by a clique as autocratic as any ruler in Fascist Europe."

The files of the Albany Field Office also reflect a news item taken from the "Saratogian" of December 15, 1944, Saratoga Springs, New York. This item is in the form of a letter to the editor entitled, "China's Plight." It sets forth the plight of China, stating that hundreds of Chinese cultural workers are living in the direct powerty. Tuberculosis has been rampant among them.

COMPREHINE

It mentions the case of CHOW TAO-FEN, the most noted publicist of China (the opinion of AGNES SMEDLEY), who has just died a long slow death of hunger and hardship. It stated that he was one of the founders and chairman of the Life Publishing Company which, until suppressed in late 1939, published war books and booklets, a newspaper, and the largest monthly magazine in the country, with millions of circulation.

She goes on to assert that the state of affairs in China has been due to the policy of the ruling Kuomintang, or nationalist party.

The article also mentions Madame SUN/YAT SEN, widow of the late Dr. SUN YAT SEN, founder of the Chinese Republic. Madame SUN YAT SEN, according to Miss SMEDLEY, has just reported to the China Aid/Council of United Relief that the Chinese Anti-Japanese Writers Association of Chungking has held a benefit and raffle to raise money to aid its members and other cultural workers.

The article closes by an appeal by Miss SMEDLEY to the fellow citizens of Saratoga Springs and neighboring regions to sacrifice some personal pleasures during the holidays and send a sum of money from $1.00 and up to a fund which will be sent to Madame SUN at Chungking to distribute to cultural workers.

Confidential Informant Palso produced a letter which was written by ELLAWINTER, 25 Reservoir Street, Cambridge, 38, Massachusetts on February 13, 1945 to AGNES SMEDLEY. The letter in part states, "I could not find out anything whatever about your husband in Moscow. I am terribly sorry. But you've no idea how difficult it was to get in touch with living people. I think after the war it may be easier. It took me months to unearth the wife and child of a friend who had been evacuated from Stalingrad."

ELLA WINTER thanks SMEDLEY for her letter of introduction to Sir ARCHIBALD who she describes as an "absolutely charming gent." ELLA WINTER further states that she is presently trying to "pin down my six months in Russia."

A review of the files of the Albany Field Division reflects that ELLA WINTER is presently the wife of DONALD OGDEN STEWART. She is also the former Mrs. LINCOLN STEFFENS. She is presently living with her husband.

STEWART, at 25 Reservoir Street, Cambridge 38, Massachusetts.

is a student at the Naval ROTC at Harvard University.

ELLA WINTER returned this past Christmas from a trip to Russia, and she is currently writing for the "New York Post" under the name of ELLA WINTER. ELLA WINTER was supposed to speak on "The Soviet People At War" at the Samuel Adams School, 37 Providence Street, Boston, Massachusetts, a Communist front school project, at 8:15 P. M. on March 11, 1945. She was to relate her experiences in the Soviet Union and in Roumania under Soviet occupation and discuss the activities of the Free Germany Committee", Soviet plans for reconstruction and post-war trade, and attitudes of the Soviet people towards the United States. However, WINTER did not speak on March 11 at the Samuel Adams School, and the lecture was necessarily cancelled.

Confidential Informant advised that AGNES SMEDLEY, a war correspondent, author and volunteer in the Chinese Med Cross, spoke March 10, 1945 at the services of the Community Church, Boston, Massachusetts, and there were approximately 450 persons in attendance, including 30 Chinese. About 20 per cent of the audience were negroes. SMEDLEY spoke on the subject.

"The Struggle for Democracy in China." An appeal for contributions by prought in approximately $1154.00. According to the following statements were made by the subject.

- 1. "There is absolutely no democracy in China. Generalissimo CHIANG KAI-SHEK rules China with an iron fist. His influence radiates throughout all China."
- 2. "There are groups in China today fighting for democratic policies. They are those in the Communist Armies and a group of organizations formed into a Democratic league."
- 3. "The refusal of the Generalissimo to give due consideration to the demands for democracy has resulted in a disunited China."
- 4. "The Generalissimo has been able to propagandize the American people into thinking that there is some semblance of democracy in China. There are three newspapers in New York whose policies are controlled by the Kuomintang in China."
- 5. "The Kuomintang is the ruling party inChina, dominated by the Generalissimo. Chinese students entering this country for the purpose of studying are drilled in the practices and beliefs of the ruling party before they leave China. The Generalissimo takes no change on these potential leaders being imbued with American democracy."

- 6. "I have been on the front lines with the Communist Armies. They are sincere in their attitudes toward a united China. They started out with 40,000 men and soon increased this number to 600,000. They have fought valiantly and suffered tremendously."
- 7. "The Generalissimo's promise": a people's assembly and a constitution for China is only a hoax. Plans are already been perfected so that the people's assembly will be handpicked by the ruling party controlled by the Generalissimo."
- 8. "The Generalissimo has attempted to appease the Communists by offering a couple of cabinet posts to them. They refused to fall for this subterfuge."
- 9. "There is a real fight for democracy shaping up in China. Unless the ruling party sees the handwriting on the wall and acts accordingly, there may be civil war in China."
- 10. "Despite the fact that Madame CHIANG KAI-SHEK spent quite some time in this country, it seems that she is in general accord with the ruling policy of the Generalissimo."
- 11. "Our own government seems to have catered to the ruling party too much.

 JOSEPH STILWELL was removed not because of inefficiency, but to satisfy the whims of the Generalissimo."
- 12. "The Communists in China have revealed their desires for the future of China and they are not based on a proletariat dictatorship. They are genuinely democratic. I am not a Communist, and I do not know much about the American Communists, but I know that I felt completely at home in the presence of the Chinese Communists."

The files of the Albany Field Division also reflect a news item from the "Schenectady Gazette" of December 19, 1944 which carried an article reflecting that MECHAEL BUTURLINSKY, Russian-American baritone, presented a program to introduce the local war relief drive for Christmas gifts for Russian children. At this meeting an account of her experiences during three trips to Russia was given by Miss AGNES SMEDLEY, author of "Eattle Hymn of China."

This article stated that Miss SMEDLEY went to Russia from China to convalence at a writer's health center. Miss SMEDLEY describes these resorts for workers and for the Red Army which are maintained in former Czarist spas and playgrounds to which the best in Russian musical and dramatic companies come regularly.

Reference is made to the report of Special Agent dated at Albany, June 19, 1945. The New York and Washington Field Divisions should report immediately on the information requested in the undeveloped leads in the report of reference.

The Albany office should arrange for more complete coverage of the motivities of Agent Smedley. Her various travel itimeraries should be determined and the appropriate auxiliary effices notified, so that physical spot shocks and confidential types of severage can be afforded her.

The Albany effice should review the possibility and practicability of technical surveillance on the Smedley woman. A mail and telegraph ever should be maintained on her, and the Albany office should develop sources of information which will keep them informed of all of Smedley's visitors and contacts.

The investigation of Agree Sundley's activities is of primary importance at this time because of the present developments in the Far East.

Throughout this program, which was completely dominated by the subject, she vehemently upheld Russia's intentions in the Far East and as evidence of Russia's good intentions cited the recent Russo-Chinese treaty in which Russia agreed not to meddle in the internal affairs of China. She characterized CHIANG KAI_SHEK as a fascist dictater and highly praised the Chinese guerrilla warriors, who, she stated, represented true democracy in China.

Further excerpts from this letter are as follows:

"MEHRU is for me the greatest public man in India.... I have never cared greatly for GANDHI important as he has become in Indian leadership.... My meeting with GANDHI and with LENIN was not far apart. LENIN became for me at once a master, and soon the greatest man I had yet known.... LENIN was and is the master builder of our age. STALIN is a liberator and conservator and as he said to me in 1933, 'the greatest Leninist in Russia'. STALIN is the Lincoln in the Soviet legend. TROTSKY, the 'Tom Paine' of the Soviet Revolution was the most gifted orator I have yet heard speak. When we meet I will tell you of these men, the leaders of the supreme economic revolution of all time."

Attached to this letter and dated July 26, 1945 was the following paragraph: ()

"Have you seen EDGAR SNOW's latest book on Soviet Russia, while very pro-Soviet Russia, I believe it is worthwhile? Certainly it serves as a foil to WHITE's contemptible 'Report on Russia' and the infamous libel of the traitor ALEXANDER BARMINE's 'One Who Survived'. We can count on the united support of the Capitalist Imperialists, the Roman Catholic Hierarchy and the poison press of this country (McCORMICK-PATTERSONS-HEARST-HOWARD) behind the Reader's Digest and the correspondents to support all attacks on the Soviet Union."

On the postscript of this letter was a declaration, "CHURCHILL is beaten - Amen and Amen." (U)

In a letter directed to the subject on August 22, 1945 by ROBINS, among other things he stated, "My friend Senator PEPPER has gone to Europe for six weeks and I hope will return uncorrupted. He is for the present a White hope in the Senate.... We are both up against events these mighty days. Nothing counts but the true words spoken and the deeds done in obedience thereto.... Nothing is set in this time of flux, and for the hour the Soviet Union is still our best hope for the liberation and enlightenment of the peoples of this our world."

Among other articles contained in the effects of the subject, is furnished by the informant, were three typewritten sheets entitled, "MAO TSE-TUNE partitioner.

"Addresses the Press Party in Yenan". This article begins by stating that on June 12th Comrade MAO TSE-TUNG, Chairman of the Central Executive Committee of the Chinese Communist Party, received the Press Party who arrived at Yenan recently. The following is the text of his speech.

Welcome to Yenan. Our cause is common, i.e. to overthrow the Japanese militarists and the Fascists. China and the world are united on this common basis.

"You arrived here at the time of the epening of the second front in Europe, which we celebrate. The opening of the second front will influence not only Europe but also the Pacific and China. China needs progress; the world needs progress; we must win the final victory.

"The opening of the second front is the result of a long-term preparation, the results of the Moscow Conference and the Teheran Conference, in which it was decided to deal blows to the enemy from east, west and south. New, the second front, the plan to crush Hitler from three sides, is realized. May President Rocsevelt, Premier Churchill and Marshal Stalin be forever healthy.

"It is now a good time for all the anti-Japanese people of China to concentrate their efforts, work hard, coordinate the decisive battle of Europe, and overthrow the Japanese militarists.

"I must say a few words regarding China's internal situation, about which you are very much concerned. Our attitude toward the question of the Kuomintang-Communists relations has been expressed in the various documents and the newspapers of the Chinese Communist Party. Now on the occasion of your arrival, I outline it again as follows:

"To support Generalissimo Chiang, to insist on cooperation between the Kuomintang and the Chinese Communists and among the Chinese people, and to struggle for the overthrow of Japanese imperialism and the establishment of an independent, democratic China, such are the unchangeable policies of the Chinese Communist Party. They were so in the early period or the middle period of the war, and they are still so today, because these policies are the wishes of the Chinese people.

"However, there is shortcoming to China, and rather serious short-coming too. This shortcoming is the lack of democracy. The Chinese people urgently need democracy, because it is only through democracy that there can "be strength in the war of resistance, that the internal and international relations in China can be placed on the right track and that we can win the victory of resistance and establish a good country."

After World War I she went to Germany with MARGARET SANGER to set up the first German birth control clinic. In 1927 she went to China to cover the Communist Revolution for Italian and German left wing newspapers. She has lived as a member of the Eighth Route (Communist) Chinese Army ever since and claims that since 1929 she has "interpreted Chinese Communism to the world." She speaks and writes Chinese and adopted a Chinese boy. She is also alleged to have visited sections of China unknown to any other white person.

SMEDLEY is the author of "Daughter of the Earth," 1929; "Chinese Destinies," 1933; "China's Red Army Marches," 1934; and "China Fights Back," 1938. Articles concerning her appear in the China Weekly Review, September 19, 1931, and the "Saturday Review of Literature," dated July 16, 1938, neither of which is readily available locally.

In addition to the foregoing, the following information was obtained from a lengthy biography of the Subject set forth in "Current Biographies," H. W. Wilson Company, New York City, 1914.

AGNES SMEDIEY is a graduate of the normal school at Tempe, Arizona. Her incarceration in the Tembs was based upon the fact that during World War I but prior to our entry into that war she received funds from the German Government for the purpose of fomenting rebellion in India. Upon her release after the completion of World War I she went directly to Berlin abcard a Polish-American freighter. She lived for eight years with VIRENDRANATH CHATTOPADHYAYA without benefit of clergy. This individual was a Hindu who advocated rebellion in India. Her man-and-wife relationship with the Hindu was broken when Hitler came to power and the Hindu fled to Moscow.

Confidential Informant observation that this Hindu might well have been a Communist supervising the Subject's activities in the United States during World War I is worthy of consideration when it is recalled that the Kaiser's Government utilized Bolsheviks in its efforts to win that war.)

During this eight-year period, SMEDIEY taught English in a German university. In 1928 she left Germany as a correspondent for the "Frankforter Zeitung" in China.

Subject's books are described by "Current Biographies" as definitely pro-Communist and she is quoted as denying Communist Party membership in 1933.

CONFIDENTIAL

SMEDIEY's book "Battle Hymn of China," 1943, was chosen the Book of the Month by the Book Find Club (The Book Find Club is a Communist Book of the Month Club, according to information available locally.). This book was endorsed further by who was arrested June 6, 1945, by Bureau Agents as one of the six principal subjects in the AMERASIA Espionage case. This latter work was also endorsed by Colonel Evans F. Carlson, U. S. Marine Corps.

From 1938 to 1941, Subject was in China as a field secretary for the Chinese Red Cross Medical Corps. She returned to the United States in december 1941 and her last writings were a series of articles for P M newspaper on United States foreign policy in China, published in October and November 1944.

Confidential Informant G advised that Subject spoke under the auspices of the Samuel Adams School for Social Studies at the Community Church in Boston on March 10, 1945. The Samuel Adams School is a Communist-inspired and dominated institution and the pastor of the Community Church in Boston, is the Subject of a pending Internal Security—C case in Boston. Approximately 450 persons attended this affair, 20 per cent of whom were Negroes and less than 10 per cent of whom were Chinese.

SMEDLEY asserted that there was absolutely no democracy in China and the only possible democratic force within that country was represented by the Chinese Communist armies. She said, "I am not a Communist and I do not know much about American Communists, but I do know that I feel completely at home in the presence of Chinese Communists."

On March 19, 1945, Miss SMEDLEY spoke at the Samuel Adams School. On both occasions a collection was taken up for Chinese relief and, while the amount obtained at the Samuel Adams School is unknown, information has been received that picked up a purse amounting to 1,154.00.

Prior to Subject's appearance in Boston on the aforementioned dates,

Communist Associate Director of the Adams School conferred with the Administrative Secretary of District #1, CP, in order to insure that there would be no conflict in SMEDLEY's schedule. This information was received from TS 200 who noted that from the conversation it appeared that both were scheduling appearances for Subject SMEDLEY.

AGNES SMEDLEY, was INTERNAL SECURITY - R Albany file 100-9125 DATE 10 13/829

Reference is made to previous correspondence in this case. The Bureau is in agreement with your suggestion that a physical surveillance of the subject on her frequent trips from Saratoga Springs, New York, might develop some pertinent information. It is, therefore, suggested that in the immediate future subject be placed under surveillance when she is scheduled to travel to other cities for the purpose of giving lectures or talks. Every effort should be made to identify individuals she contacts on these trips and especially efforts should be made to determine if she contacts any employees of the Federal Government who are in a position to pass on to her confidential information which they have in their possession as a result of their Government positions. Your office should appropriately savise other offices where subject may be speaking of the above suggestions so that they will be aware of the type of physical surveillance desired by the Bureau.

With reference to your request for a check of the Bureau indices on certain names the following is set forth for your information:

Raymond Robins is mentioned in the 1942-43 edition of Who's Who in America. According to this reference book, he was born on Staten Island, New York, on September 17, 1873. He was educated at home and in country schools in Ohio, Kentucky, and Florida. He married Margaret Dreier on June 21, 1905. He was a Deputy Commander and Major, U. S. Army in the American Red Cross Mission to Russia in June, 1917. He was promoted to Commander and Lieutenant Colonel, U. S. Army, commanding the American Red Cross Mission in Russia between November, 1917, and May, 1918. On April 9, 1932, he and his wife deeded their Chinsegut "Ill Planation Groves and Forest Winter Home composed of 2080 acres as a donation to the Federal Department of Agriculture. This home is now known as Chinsegut Hill Sanctuary, Hernando County, Florida. In April, May, and June, 1933, he travelled approximately 8,000 miles through the Soviet Union studying mass production on farms, in mines, in factories, and primary education under the Soviet system of social control. His winter home is Chinsegut Hill, Hernando County, Florida, Post Office Brooksville. His summer home is Southwest Harbor. Maine.

In 1942 the postmaster at Brooksville, Florida, was interviewed in connection with another matter for background information on Colonel Raymond Robins. The postmaster at that time informed that Colonel Robins was born in Kentucky and came to Brooksville to live when he was a boy. He stated that he perticipated in the blendike Gold Rush, and thereafter resided in Chicago where he became associated with Herold Ickes, returning to Brocksville about 1930. He stated that Colonel Robins was considered wealthry was highly regarded in the community and has been engaged in philanthropic enterprises for many years. He informed that Robins returned to Russia in 1933 making contacts with Russian Government officials preparatory to our recognition of Russia. Prior to that time Colonel Robins is reported to have strongly advocated the recognition of Russia, making a nationaide tour speaking on this subject. Since 1935, according to the postmaster, Colonel Robins has been confined to his estate, being disabled as a result of an injury. He stated that in view of his support of Russia individuals not associated with Colonel Robins have called him a Communist. (100-7045-193)

A review of the Bureau files also reflects that some people refer to Colonel and Mrs. Raymond Robins as Communists of the intellectual type, and they are also alleged to have entertained many intellectual Communists on their estate in Brooksville, Florida. It has been confidentially reported that a Raymond Robins is a national director of Russia War Relief, Inc., and a member of the Chicago Forum Committee. Solonel Raymond Robins is listed as a member of the Mational Board of the American Council on Soviet Relations. (100-146964-37)

Raymond Robins, Chinsegut Hill Sanctuary, Florida, on February 2, 19h3, was listed as a member of the Text Book Commission of the "Protestant." The alleged purpose of the Text Book Commission is to eliminate anti-Semitic statements from American Text Books. (190-60523-39 page 8) and the writer, through June 7, 1946, and thereafter a spot surveillance was maintained through June 12, 1946.

From the station SMEDIEY proceeded directly to Apartment 6D, 853 Seventh Avenue, New York City, which is occupied by Mrs. MARI B. KNOBLAUCH with whom subject has stayed on previous visits to New York City.

A search of the subject's name through the indices of the New York Field Division and a review of the references obtained thereby reflect the following information which has not previously been included in a report:

Confidential Informant advised on April 3, 1946, that a dinner was held at the Roosevelt Hotel which was sponsored by the COMMITTEE FOR A DEMOCRATIC FAR EASTERN POLICY at which Reverend STEPHENTRITCHMAN acted as chairman. AGNES SMEDIEY sat on the Spongors' Dias as did Ligutenant Commander DEAN, THEODORE HX WHITE, Far Eastern Correspondent for "TIME" and "LIFE" magazines, Captain ŒORŒ S WUCHINICH member of OSS; Mrs. EDGAL SNOW; FREDERICK VIFIELD; HUGH DE LACEY; UNITED STATES SENATOR, TOBEY; RICHARD WATTS, JR.; PHILIP JAFFE; CARLISS LAMONT; ALBERT KAHN, and IRA GOLDFIN, the soldier who led the GI demonstrations in Manila. Speeches at the dinner called for real political and economic democracy for China and for friendship between the United States and the USSR. The United States foreign policy was criticized in the Far East, and those gathered demanded withdrawal of American troops from China. A transcript of a speech by Madame SUN YAT SEN was read. Congretulatory messages were received and read to the audience from Secretary of Commerce HENRY A. WALLACE, JAMES ROOSEVELT, Senator CLAUDE REPPER, Representative ADOLPH SABATH, Colonel EVANS F. CARLSON, EDWARD G. BOBINSON, ARTIE SHAW, GREGORINGECK, FRANK SINATRA, ORSON WELLES, and LEON MACCAREY. Ten thousand dollars was collected at the dinner, and among the large contributors were FREDERICK FIELD, SAMBUBIN, CORLISS LAMONT, REVERETT GLEASON, CHARLOTTE HONIG, PHILIP JAFFE, REGINA WILSON, DIANA FORBES ROBERTSON SCHEEAN, Mrs. ROBERT EMMETT, SAMMOVICK, and SAM JAFFE.

Information in the New York files also indicate that in connection with another investigation WHITTAKER CHAMBERS was interviewed on May 10, 1945, by Special Agent

When questioned concerning SMEDLEY, CHAMBERS said, "there is absolutely no question about it," meaning there is no question but that AGNES SMEDLEY is a Communist. He stated that everybody is acquainted with the fact. He further commented that she may never have had a Communist Party membership book, but if not, it was because the officials believed here more valuable if Communist Party affiliations were not established. He also related that it was rumored at the time EARLY BROWDER was in China that he had a most secret meeting with Communist Party officials including AGNES SMEDLEY's Chinese husband. During the meeting the Nanking Police raided it and all were arrested.

NY 100-68282 Information in the New York files further discloses that a fullpage advertisement in the New York Times dated March 14, 1946, sponsored by the CITIZENS UNITED TO ABOLISH THE WOOD-RANKIN COMMITTEE, Suite 170, Hotel Astor, Broadway and 45th Street, New York City, lists the name AGNES SHEDIEY on a list of about two hundred and seventy names headed, "JUST A FEW OF THE OUTSTANDING AMERICANS WHO ARE SPONSORING THE FIGHT." The surveillance in New York City from the time of subject's arrival until the afternoon of June 6, 1946, failed to reflect any contacts made by the subject or any other activities pertinent to this investigation. However, on the afternoon of June 6, 1946, she attended a matinee performance of the stage play "OKI.AHOMA" at the Saint James Theatre with three unidentified young women. After the play attempts were made to identify these contacts of the subject with the following results: Unidentified girl number one was described from observation as follows: 18 - 22Age: Approximately 5' 5" Height: Weight: 130 lbs. Hair: Brown Build: Stocky Complexion: Blotchy Appearance: Jewish; wears horn b2 rimmed glasses. b7D Unidentified girl number one left the subject in front of the St. James Theatre and proceeded to Madison Square Garden where she attended a meeting for the RELIEF OF NEGROES OF SOUTH AFRICA which was sponsored by the COUNCIL ON AFRICAN AFFAIRS, a Communist Front organization. Confidential Informant | subsequently advised that an estimated crowd of 15,000 persons, half negro and half white, attended this meeting and that the program favored freedom for the African colonies, and Big Three unity. It also castigated the foreign policy of Secretary of State JAMES BYRNES, and the various state Jim Crow Laws. Persons who are suspicious of Russia were also criticized at the meeting. A large sum of money was collected for the relief of negroes in Africa and many in attendance were recognized by the informant as Communists. U Due to the fact, however, that only one agent was available to surveil this young woman the surveillance was lost in the immense crowd at the close of the meeting and it was, therefore, impossible to identify this person. - 3 -

Unidentified girl number two is described from observation as follows:

Age:

Early twenties

Height:

51 101

Weight:

120 pounds

Hair:

Blonde

Fair

Complexion: Facial

Fine and sharp

Features: Dress:

Gray flannel suit, white crownless

straw hat trimmed in brown and white ribbons

Build:

Slender

Unidentified girl number two left the company of the subject in front of 853 Seventh Avenue, and proceeded to Room 1442, New Wellington Hotel. The writer interviewed Manager of the Wyoming Apartments 853 Seventh Avenue, New York City, in which is located the apartment of MARY B. KNOBLAUCH in which the subject stayed during her visit in New York City. He advised that Mrs. KNOBLAUCH is the widow of CHARLES E. KNOBLAUCH who was connected with Colonel WILLIAM B. THOMPSON. KNOBLAUCH was millionaire and lost most of it during the crash of 1929. According to _____, KNOBLAUCH lost his mind and died. His widow, MARY B. KNOBLAUCH, who is seventy years of age and childless, has travelled over the entire world and has a collection of oriental objects. Her sole support since the business failure and death of her husband is a trust fund which was left her by a relative who is unknown to _____ The informant says that Mrs. KNOBLAUCH has a very brilliant mind but is quite hard of hearing and is slowly dying from a cause which he is not familiar with.

Inasmuch as the physical surveillance had not proved of great consequence inasmuch as furthering the investigation of the subject was concerned, the Bureau and Albany Field Division were advised on June 7, 1946, that the surveillance was discontinued as of midnight that date and that the remainder of her visit in New York City would be covered by a spot surveillance.

On June 11, 1946, inasmuch as the subject had not been observed through spot checks since the evening of June 6, 1946, the Albany Field Division was advised by teletype and requested to check the subject's residence in Saratoga Springs and determine whether or not she had returned to her home. On the following day, by referenced teletype of June 12, 1946, the Albany Field Division advised that the subject returned to Saratoga Springs on the afternoon of June 10, 1946.

According to these letters, STILWELL in no way agreed with CHIANG KAI SHEK in the handling of the political situation in China and stated he had not publicly fought CHIANG KAI SHEK because he did not want to become involved in a "squirting contest with a skunk". SMEDLEY stated our meddling in the Chinese situation undoubtedly helped create the civil war.

According to SMEDLEY had with her one Mr. SHOE (phonetic) author of "Rickshaw Boy" and that SHOE briefly spoke and stated that the Chinese hate the British and are learning to hate the Americans.

As outlined in Albany letter to the Bureau dated March 12, 1946, this case will be continued in a "pending inactive" status and any pertinent activity will be closely followed.

Re Bureau letter dated 1/6/48.

JULIAN JUMPERZ was interviewed at his office at 610 Fifth Avenue, NYC, by an agent in connection with the information requested in reference letter.

For the Bureau's information, it has proven difficult to get detail out of GUMPERZ in the contacts made with him to date. He sets the time for the interviews. However, he gives the impression once the interview is under way that his time is limited. For example, he takes phone calls in the Agent's presence and from the conversation it is made quite obvious that another person is waiting to see him. This is not to say that GUMPERZ is antagonistic. He is friendly, but very businesslike. He is either a very busy man or tries to create that impression. He gives one sentence replies without elaboration and is inclined to state authoritative opinions without supporting facts. This necessitates series of questions to elicit the detail that the Bureau wants in this type of an inter-These circumstances are pointed out since they affect interviews conducted with GUMPERZ.

GUMPERZ stated that he first heard of AGNES SMEDLEY in 1927 when she was teaching English at the University of Berlin. Later he met her in Paris sometime in 1928. He translated a book which the subject wrote into German and was instrumental in getting portions of this book published in the German paper "Frankfurter Zeitung. As a result of this business relationship, GUMPERZ stated. he was instrumental in getting SMEDLEY appointed as a correspondent for the above newspaper in China. As a result of this when SMEDLEY went to China GUMPERZ translated her articles for the paper and also handled her income from this source. He said that he banked the money for her in Berlin and when she needed funds she would write to him and he would forward her the amount she requested.

GUMPERZ stated that he recalled that SMEDLEY was first assigned to Harbin. He said he didn't know what the circumstances were concerning her transfer later to Shanghai. He said he believed that she discontinued her work for the Zeitung about 1931, mainly because of the difficulty involved in getting her dispatches translated. About the same time she became more interested in Chinese affairs and less interested in Hindu affairs.

Concerning SMEDLEY'S political sympathies, GUMPERZ ridiculed the idea that she was at any time a Communist or a Communist sympathizer, at least during the period when he was connected with her from 1928 until 1931. Subsequent to that time, he said, he knows very little concerning her activities. He said that during the period in which he knew her he, although still a Communist Party member, had already broken with the Communists in spirit. This of course was not known to his Communist associates, who many times expressed their dislike for SMEDLEY and their concern over the fact that GUMPERZ was associating with her. He stated that SMEDLEY differed with the Communists in nearly every issue that came up during that time. In his words, SMEDLEY was anti-Comintern and anti-Communist but not necessarily anti-Soviet. He said that it was impossible to think of SMEDLEY as a Comintern agent or an agent for anyone because of her instability and her emotionalism. He said that Communists during that period were constantly being warned to exercise caution in dealing with her. GUMPERZ said it may be true that she associated with some Hindu Communists or Hindus who were sympathetic to the Soviet Union, mainly because the Hindus were anxious to get support from whatever source they could get it.

GUMPERZ stated that he had no information concerning SMEDLEY'S activities among Communists in China. Since SMEDLEY'S return from China in 1940 or 1941, GUMPERZ said, he has had a couple of letters from her but he said that he could recall nothing of interest in these letters.

It is noted that SMEDLEY, according to other informants, was believed to have been in Moscow during the winter of 1929 and 1930. When this was mentioned, GUMPERZ said that it was probably true. He said that he thinks that she went there at that time to see Hindu friends and recalled that he received letters from her dispatched from Moscow

It is believed that may be able to furnish additional information concerning SMEDLEY during the pertinent years and this b7D matter will be discussed with that informant at the earliest opportunity.

Letter to Director NY 100-68282

In connection with information recently developed that AGNES SMEDIEY was associated with and recruited a Japanese agent for Dr. RICHARD (ICA) SORGE, the informant, who is well acquainted with both SORGE and SMEDIEY, stated that they were acquainted with each other. The Bureau was previously advised that AIFRED KOHLBERG said he was in possession of clippings from the Chicago Tribune, which clippings named AGNES SMEDIEY in the SORGE espionage case.

An agent of this office more recently saw a photostatic copy of this Chicago Tribune article. This photostat is in the possession of of the New Leader in New York City. The article stated that SORGE credited SMEDLEY with the recruitment of MOZUNI OZAKI, one of SORGE's most important sub-agents in Japan. It is believed that additional information will be available to the Bureau if records of the SORGE trial can be obtained.

Reference is made to the letter dated September 14, 1948, from Albany to the Bureau, with copies for your office.

The Bureau desires that you verify the subject's residence at Palisades. Rockland County, New York, immediately and thereafter advise the Albany Office in order that Form FD-128 may be forwarded to the Bureau. In addition, the Bureau desires that you institute inquiries to ascertain the subject's present activities in order to determine whether the Security Index Card should be retained on her.

In this connection it is noted that the latest report which was submitted dated at Albany, New in this case was the report of Special Agent York, on December 19, 1966. It is the Bureau's desire that current reports be submitted on the subjects of Security Index Cards in order that the Security Index will contain only the names of those individuals who, on a current basis, may constitute a threat to the internal security of this country.

While it is realized that existing instructions do not require that a report be submitted periodically on Security Index card subjects unless the subject is also a top functionary, it is felt that in view of the tense international situation at the present time, a new report should be submitted setting forth the extent of the subject's present activities in connection with the Communist Party and related groups in order that the Bureau will be in possession of current information concerning each one of those subjects who are considered a threat to the internal security.

INTERVIEW WITH JULIAN GUMPERZ

JULIAN GUMPERZ was interviewed at his office, 610 Fifth Avenue, New York City, by Special Agent and furnished the following information:

b7C per FBI

Little

State L

NY 100-68282

GUMPERZ stated that he first heard of AGNES SMEDLEY in 1927 when she was teaching English at the University of Berlin. Later he met her in Paris sometime in 1928. He translated a book which the subject wrote into German and was instrumental in getting portions of this book published in the German paper "Frankfurter Zeitung." As a result of this business relationship, GUMPERZ stated, he was instrumental in getting SMEDLET appointed as a correspondent for the above newspaper in China.

As a result of this when SMEDLEY went to China, GUMPERZ translated her articles for the paper and also handled her income from this source. He said that he banked the money for her in Berlin and when she needed funds she would write to him and he would forward her the amount she requested.

GUMPERZ stated that he recalled that SMEDLEY was first assigned to Harbin. He said he didn't know what the circumstances were concerning her transfer later to Shanghai. He said he believed that she discontinued her work for the Zeitung about 1931, mainly because of the difficulty involved in getting her dispatches translated. About the same time she became more interested in Chinese affairs and less interested in Hindu affairs.

Concerning SMEDLEY'S political sympathies, GUMPERZ ridiculed the idea that she was at any time a Communist or a Communist sympathizer, at least during the period when he was connected with her from 1928 until 1931. Subsequent to that time, he said, he knows very little concerning her activities.

He stated that during the period in which he knew her he, although still a Communist Party member, had already broken with the Communists in spirit. This of course was not known to his Communist associates, who many times expressed their dislike for SMEDLEY and their concern over the fact that GUMPERZ was associating with her. He stated that SMEDLEY differed with the Communists in nearly every issue that came up during that time. In his words, SMEDLEY was anti-Comintern and anti-Communist but not necessarily anti-Soviet. He said that it was impossible to think of SMEDLEY as a Comintern agent or an agent for anyone because of her instability and her emotionalism. He said that

Communists during that period were constantly being warned to exercise caution in dealing with her. GUMPERZ said it may be true that she associated with some Hindu Communists or Hindus who were sympathetic to the Soviet Union, mainly because the Hindus were anxious to get support from whatever source they could get it.

GUMPERZ stated that he had no information concerning SMEDLEY'S activities among Communists in China. Since SMEDLEY'S return from China in 1940 or 1941, GUMPERZ said, he has had a couple of letters from her but he said that he could recall nothing of interest in these letters.

It is noted that SMEDLEY, according to other informants, was believed to have been in Moscow during the winter of 1929 and 1930. When this was mentioned, GUMPERZ said that it was probably true. He said that he thinks that she went there at that time to see Hindu friends and recalled that he received letters from her dispatched from Moscow.

INTERVIEW WITH CONFIDENTIAL INFORMANT
Confidential Informant was interviewed concerning this subject on February 25, 1948.	b2 b7I
The informant advised that SMEDLEY was known to the informant quite well during the late 1920s and early 1930s. the furnished the following information concerning SMEDLEY and JULIAN GUM	nen ()

She said JULIAN GUMPERZ would have found it difficult to discuss AGNES SMEDLEY with agents. He had a love affair with her and subsequently, after they had broken up, SMEDLEY became quite vicious in her remarks concerning GUMPERZ. The affair between GUMPERZ and SMEDLEY began about 1928. GUMPERZ did actually do translations of her writings for books and newspapers and the informant said that GUMPERZ' statements regarding SMEDLEY'S assignment to China for the Zeitung were correct.

CUM TEMIAL

SEXPET

504

undoubtedly GUMPERZ handled financial transactions for her in this connection and informant would expect that he forwarded money to her in China under the circumstances. Informant said that GUMPERZ and SMEDLEY broke up early in the 1930's but she could not give a definite time.

GUMPERZ met her first at about the same time. Informant met her several times during the next few years and knew her quite well during that period. Informant stated that she met SMEDLEY in Moscow in 1931. At that time SMEDLEY was apparently upset and was very critical of the Comintern. The informant did not know exactly what caused this but said she suspected that SMEDLEY was being prepared for an assignment in China for the Comintern. She stated SMEDLEY had a high opinion of her ability as a writer and correspondent. She had evidently been told by the Comintern that she was to do no writing or that "other work" was to come ahead of her writing. It is noted, however, that the informant only speculates in this connection. She had no specific information

Relative to SMEDLEY'S activity for the Comintern, said, "Of course, she was used." The informant said she could rurnish nothing specific in this connection but stated that certainly Comintern representatives and/or Soviet espionage services would use her for her contacts and knowledge of the Far East. She said SMEDLEY might or might not know what she was being used for and could not say to what extent

BACKGROUND - 1892 - 1916

Agnes Smedley was born near Ogood, Missouri on February 22, 1892. In Mer early childhood her family moved to the town of Trinidad in the coal mining district of Colorado. Thereafter she spent one year as a special student at the State Normal School, Tempe, Arizona, and on August 24, 1912 married Ernest W. Brundin, a young engineer, who subsequently obtained a divorce from her on grounds of desertion. At the age of 20, Smedley moved to California where she was graduated from the State Normal School at Santiago, thereafter teaching for three years at the same school. During this period she also served as a correspondent for the Los Angeles Ernsiner.

 Indictment — 1917 - 1919

On July 7, 1917 a number of individuals were indicted in the United States District Gourt, San Francisco, California, in the so-called "Hindu Conspiracy Case" which involved members of the Indian Nationalist Party in this country who were actively attempting to foment a revolution in India. Smedley appears to have actively participated in this movement and in that year moved to New York where she became Associate Secretary of the International Forum Association. In New York she wrote a book, "The Isolation of Japan in World Politics," published by the De Pawphilis Press, 45 Greenwich Avenue, New York City, which was subsequently seized by Agents of the United States Army Intelligence.

On March 18, 1918 Agnes Smedley and Sailendra Nath Ghose were arrested in New York City, a matter which was widely publicized in the American press. The March 19, 1918 issue of the "New York Times" carried an article captioned "American Girl Held as Indian Plotter." This article reported that:

Agnes Smedley, an American girl, also known as Agnes Brundin, and Smilendra Math Chose, a Hindu, who is preminent in the activities of an organization which calls itself the 'Indian Mationalist Party'.... Not only do the data which the Government has obtained as a result of the arrest involve plots in India, but they also disclose the fast that Leon Trotsky, the deposed Bolahevist Foreign Minister of Bussia, was recently appealed to for aid in stirring up trouble in India, and was asked to use his influence against the U. S. in arresting and bringing to trial Hindus and others who plotted in the U. S. against British severeignty."

According to this article, the defendants had been representing themselves as diplomatic representatives of the Nationalist Party of India, which was a violation of the Nationage Act. It reported that Angley had been arrested in a Greenstan Village apertment and had refused to talk.

On April 1, 1918 an indictment was returned against Agnes Smedley and Sailendra Math Chose in the Southern District of New York for violation of Section 3, Title 8 of the Espienage Act and Section 332 of the United States Criminal Code for acting as agents of a foreign country and aiding and abetting such action. Smedley was released on bond on May 7, 1918 and the indictment against both defendants was distincted on December 16, 1918.

ACTIVITIES IN CHROMET AND RESETA - 1920 - 1928

In 1930, fallewing World War I, Smedley went to Germany, proceeding immediately to Russia where she remained for a six-menths' study tour. She then returned to Berlin where she reportedly lived under the name, "Miss Alice Bird." In Berlin, Smedley took an active part in the Indian revolutionary movement and met the young revolutionary leader, Virendranath Chattopadhyaya, for eight years living with him as his wife. However, with the rise of Ritler, Chattopadhyaya fled from Germany, medicing refuge in Russia.

In 1928 Amedicy also not Julian Gumpers, an American citizen then in Berlin as an active Communist propagandist. Compers, who now claims to be anti-Communist, presently resides in New York City and has been interviewed by Bureau Agents. Although appearing reluctantly cooperative, Compers has admitted meeting Smedicy in Paris in 1928, stating that he subsequently translated into German a book which she had written. He said that he had been instrumental in getting portions of this book published in the German paper "Frankfurter Zaitung," and later secured her appointment as a correspondent for that newspaper in China. Thereafter, according to his own statements, Gumpers served as Smedley's financial agent in Germany, banking her money in Berlin and forwarding funds at her request. (Hote: It is not inconceivable that Compers may have thus acted as an intermedicary paymenter for the Saviet government.)

Gumpers ridicaled the possibility that Smedley was a Communist during the period he was connected with her from 1928-31. Although admitting that she was probably in Moscow during the Einter of 1929-30 (as claimed by other sources), and may have associated with Hindu Communists, Gumpers stated that it was impossible to think of her as an agent of the Comintern because of her instability and emotionalism. He said that Smedley had differed with the Communists in nearly every issue and that the Communists (of which he was admittedly one) were constantly being warned to emercise saution in dealing with her. The September 19, 1931, issue of the "China Weekly Review," left-wing newspaper published in Shanghai, carried an editorial entitled "Agnes Smedley and the Shanghai Die-Hards." This editorial commented on the fact that Agnes Smedley and Madame Sun Yet-Sen had transmitted to local newspapers and the Chinese authorities, letters appealing for clemency for Paul and Gertrude Noulens (convicted Soviet agents in China). The editorial branded as false allegations that Smedley was a Communist, adding they were glad to do so "because the 'Review' has at times been subjected to similar underhanded attacks."

On January 7, 1937, the "New York Sun" carried an article entitled, "U. S. Woman Aids Chinese Reds" and on January 8, 1937, there appeared in the "New York Daily News a similar Associated Press dispatch captioned "U. S. Woman Teach This latter article reported thatı

> "A quarter of a million army men were reported today to have joined in a movement to create a great Communist State in Northwest China with an American woman playing a spectacular role in the uprising."

The article continued by stating that Agnes Smedley, former Colorado school teacher and long associated with the radical movements in Asia, was described as conducting radio propaganda to unite large disaffected military units under the Red banner in defiance of the Nanking Government.

"In the forefront of the new campaign, said reliable sources, is Miss Smedley. Every few hours she has been broadcasting in English appeals for the Red uprising against Nanking....."

The January, 1944, issue of "Current Biography" indicated that from 1938 to 1941 Agnes Smedley worked as a publicist and field worker for the Chinese Red Cross Medical Corps and late in December, 1941, returned to the United States to recuperate from several attacks of malaria and other illnesses. (61-5380-9, p. 13)

However, according to a news item appearing in the December 19, 19hh, issue of the "Schenectady Gasette," which reported a lecture by Agnes Smedley at a local war relief drive for Christmas gifts for Russian children, it was indicated that from China she had gone to Russia to convalence at a writer's health center. Smedley was reported as describing these resorts for workers and the Red Army as being maintained in former Czarist spas and playgrounds to which the best in Russian musical and dramatic companies came regularly. (61-5380-9 p. 43)

Tokyo Spy Report

The report on the activities of a pre-Pearl Harbor Soviet spy ring in Japan proves beyond any possibility of doubt that the Army had better stay out of the business of exposing spies.

It does not prove much more than that. Certainly it does not even begin to prove the accusation that Miss Agnes Smedley, who has written several books on China, has been "exposed for what she is, a spy and agent of the Soviet government."

The report makes this charge without the slightest qualification. There is nothing to indicate that either the author of the report or the anonymous Army authority responsible for its publication made the slightest effort to locate Miss Smedley and get her side of the story. On the contrary, the report even goes so far as to insinuate that Miss Smedley has been a fugitive, though she has been living quite openly in her home at Palisades, New Jersey.

Miss Smedley's attorney, O. John, Rogge, cannot be accused of overstatement when he says the Army's indictment of his client is "outrageous." For it is precisely that.

Although cognizant of her emphatic definial, The Star has no way of knowing whether Miss Smedley is or ever has been an agent of the Soviet Union, or of any other foreign government. And, actually, the fact as to this is beside the point. For the real point has to do with the basis, or rather the lack of basis, for the Army's accusation against her.

The spy expose is premised on statements allegedly made by members of the alleged spy ring after they had been caught by the Japanese authorities. There is no way of knowing the extent to which these statements should be believed or rejected. But at best they are the statements of Soviet spies, certainly not very trustworthy witnesses. And the most that can be wrung from this evidence is that there may be some reason to believe that Miss Smedley, at that time, was working for the Russians against the Japanese. Yet the Army, without offering a particle of proof and apparently without trying to ge any, indicts her in 1949 as being a spy and agent of the Soviet government. If that is not outrageous, then nothing is.
